Research scientists' body elects new president

BANGI: Dr Muhd Noor Muhd Yunus, the former deputy director-general of research and development programme of the Malaysian Nuclear Agency, has been elected the Malaysian Association of Research Scientists (MARS) president for the 2020-2022 term. Noor was elected to the post at the association's annual general meeting last Friday to replace Dr Wan Manshol Wan Zin. MARS members comprise research officers and scientists from research institutions, including the Malaysian Nuclear Agency, Sirim Bhd, Institute of Medical Research, Malaysian Agricultural Research and Development Institute, Science and Technology Research Institute for Defence and Forest Research Institute Malaysia.
